DETAILED ACTION

Response to Amendment

1. The amendment presented in communication filed September 23, 2004 is acknowledged.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

2. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

3. Claims 1, 3-10 and 14-23 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by or, in the alternative, under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as obvious over Sparks et al. (3,081,038).

Sparks et al. shows a lawn irrigation system having a frame 78, fluid motor 86, sprinkler arm 50, spray tubes 62, drive wheels 24, guide wheel 24, water hose connection 42, drive gear 48 and worm screw 58, removable cover 82 in the form of a tank, hose 32 and stop mechanism defined by elements 90, 92, 94 and 98. Also note figure 6.

As to the limitation of the cover being removable, such a recitation is considered to be inherently a part of the construction of the Spark et al. device since figure 2 shows the housing being mounted by screws. However, in the alternative, if not, It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art to have made the cover removable so as to be able to provide a fast, easy and convenient way to access the motor for maintenance or replacement of parts.

The lawn irrigation system shown by Sparks et al., will inherently perform the method steps recited in the method claims during normal operational use of the device.

4. Claims 1, 3-10 and 14-23 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by or, in the alternative, under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as obvious over Heren et al. (6,604,697).

Heren et al. shows a lawn irrigation system having a frame 202, 210, fluid motor 50, sprinkler arm 244, spray tubes 260, 266, drive wheel 14, guide wheels 18, 20, water hose connection 26, planet gears and sun gears allow the motor to be operable at more than one gear ratio (see column 4, lines 51-56, removable cover 12 in the form of a tank, hose 28 and stop mechanism defined by elements 232, 250. Also note figure 5A.

As to the limitation of the cover being removable, such a recitation is considered to be inherently a part of the construction of the Heren et al. device since figure 2A shows the housing being mounted to the frame and does not disclose any welding or forming in one piece that would prevent the cover from being removable. However, in the alternative, if not, It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art to have made the cover removable so as to be able to provide a fast, easy and convenient way to access the motor for maintenance or replacement of parts.

The lawn irrigation system shown by Heren et al. will inherently perform the method steps recited in the method claims during normal operational use of the device.

Response to Arguments

5. Applicant's arguments with respect to the claims with respect to the Spark et al. reference have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection. The rejection has been changed from a 102 rejection to a 102/103 rejection.

6. The declaration filed on September 23, 2004 under 37 CFR 1.131 has been considered but is ineffective to overcome the Heren et al. reference.

7. The evidence submitted is insufficient to establish a conception of the invention prior to the effective date of the Heren et al. reference. While conception is the mental part of the inventive act, it must be capable of proof, such as by demonstrative evidence or by a complete disclosure to another. Conception is more than a vague idea of how to solve a problem. The requisite means themselves and their interaction must also be comprehended. See Mergenthaler v. Scudder, 1897 C.D. 724, 81 O.G. 1417 (D.C. Cir. 1897).

Conclusion

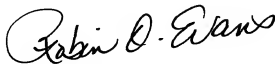

8. Applicant's amendment necessitated the new ground(s) of rejection presented in this Office action. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. See MPEP § 706.07(a). Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the date of this final action.
